

Learning outcomes

A brief summary of what you would learn in this course

At the end of this course, you will learn about:

- The different ways of passing props and getting output
- Composition and higher-order components
- Presentational and container components
- Describing the concept and importance of one-way direction data flow
- Implementing one-way direction data flow using Flux and Redux
- Properly managing dependencies in your React applications
- Style React components
- Integrating third-party libraries in you React applications

Let's dive right into it!