About Me

My name is Alberto Montalesi and I'm from Italy. Right now I'm working in Vietnam as a Software Developer creating enterprise software.

I discovered my passion for programming in 2016, at the age of 24 after receiving a bachelor's degree in law.

My path to becoming a self-taught software developer has not been easy, but it's definitely something I would do again.

You can read my story on DevTo.

Writing the book "The Complete Guide to Modern JavaScript" that has helped other aspiring developers fills me with pride, as I know how hard it can be to find the motivation and resources to continue studying and improving your skills.

Apart from programming, my other passions include photography, traveling, and gaming.
