

Sending Data: The Basics

You know now how to retrieve some data from web servers or APIs. This chapter will teach you how to send data to them.

Sending data to a server is usually done via an HTTP `POST` method. In that case, the request body contains the data to be sent.

The data format depends on what the server expects. It can either be:

- Key/value pairs like when a form is directly submitted.
- JSON for more structured data.