

The Problem

Welcome to this challenge. What are you supposed to do?

Pretty simple.

Consider the markup below:

HTML CSS

Hello World!

Ah, Learning CSS has been more fun than I thought It would. I am certainly having a great time with the tips, lessons, and all. Thanks, Educative.io! You Rock.

The End

Don't worry if nothing above makes sense to you. The bit to concern yourself with the most is the exercise below.

Below is a list of exercises. You should solve them (or at least attempt them) before checking the solution in the next lesson.

Here they are:

Challenges

1. Underline the h1 heading.
2. Remove the large gap between the header element and the following paragraph
3. Target the `.highlight` class and Highlight the text. Give it a yellow highlight.
4. Target the `.justify` class and justify the text i.e make the text flush with both margins - left and right.
5. Target the `.center` class and center the text.
6. Target the `.caps` class and make the text appear in capital letters ONLY!
7. Target the `.indent` class and indent the text.
8. Target the `.drop-cap` class and give it a drop cap effect.
9. Target every link in the document, and give them a color of `darkblue` with a bold weight, EXCEPT the link in the paragraph, `.no-link`. Give that a color of red
10. When hovered upon, change the color of the links to `teal`

Below is the playground to write your solution.

Output
HTML
CSS (SCSS)
<pre>/* write your solution here! */</pre>

The Result

If done right, the final result should look like this:

Hello World!

Ah, Learning CSS has been more fun than I thought It would. I am certainly having a great time with the tips, lessons, and all. Thanks, Educative.io! You Rock.

JUST TO REITERATE, LEARNING CSS HAS BEEN MORE FUN THAN I THOUGHT IT WOULD. LOTS OF FUN TO COME IN THE LATER LESSONS. CAN'T WAIT!

The End

Get busy!

Do NOT beat yourself up if any of the challenges are too difficult. Just skip them.

You will find my solution in the next lesson.

Note

Someone asked me what ‘drop cap’ and ‘justify’ meant. If you aren’t sure what those mean, the following should help.

1. A drop cap is used where the first character of a paragraph is made larger, taking up several lines of text. Please see the first line of text below ‘Hello World’ in the image above.
2. Justify refers to having the lines of text flush with both margins of the page. The text is aligned to neither the left nor right margin. Please refer to the image above too to the image above too.
