Conclusion

This lesson gives a conclusion of CppMem and how it helps in optimization of programs.

Using a small program and successively improving it was quite enlighting. First, more interleavings of threads were possible with each step; therefore, more different values for x and y were also possible. Second, the challenge of the program increases with each improvement. Even for this small program, CppMem provides invaluable services.